Family Interview-"Migrations"

January 31, 2012

Families,

As part of our work with the Phillips Collection, each class at our school is completing a project based on Jacob Lawrence's "Great Migration" series. In these paintings, Jacob Lawrence explores African-Americans who left the South and traveled North.

Our focus in Second Grade will be on migrations to Washington, DC. Each second grader will be creating their own migration painting depicting someone they speak to who has moved to Washington, DC from another place. This interview will help them to develop ideas for their paintings. They can speak to a family member or any other person who has moved to DC from another place.

Please work with the student to help them complete this interview. We are hoping to have them returned by Monday, February 6th.

Thanks!

~Mr. Frazell and Ms. Crosson
